ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A signal processing device is composed of a processing circuit for compressing/expanding a video signal by using a memory, and a circuit for generating a character signal by using the memory.